OFFICIAL PAPER OF CITY AND CO.

NAPOLÉON, O., NOV. 18, 1886.

It is reported that the Toledo Blade is for sale.

The oleomargarine tax will net $1,500,000 per annum.

Congress will assemble two weeks from next Monday.

By a vote of 428 Knox county decides in favor of a children's home.

The pansy is Mrs. Cleveland's favorite flower, and she has the dinner table daily decorated with them.

Recruiting for the proposed filibustering expedition into Mexico is in progress at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Governor Foraker has appointed Judge Francis J. Diekmann, of Cleveland, supreme judge, vice Judge Johnson, resigned.

Col. Robt. Ingersoll has declined to assist in the trials of the anarchists at Chicago. He says he has not the time to devote to the matter.

It is announced that the marriage of Michael Duvitt, the Irish agitator, to Miss Mary Yora, of Oakland, Cal., will take place December 30.

A writer in the Findlay Jeffersonian wants the editor to publish the Beautiful Snow poem. Don't you do it, Balsley, you are too young to die.

Two of the Republican candidates for Congress in Minnesota were free-traders, one of them being a Vice President of the American Free-Trade League.

President Cleveland has appointed William D. Burnett United States District Attorney for the Southern District of Ohio in the place of Phil H. Kunkler.

Another bitter Republican disappointment—the re-election of that over ready and always efficient Democratic Congressman, Hon. Wm. R. Springer, of Illinois.

The citizens of Mansfield expended over $400 in the entertainment of the distinguished visitors on the occasion of laying the Intermediate Penitentiary corner stone.

The official vote of the State is: Robinson, Republican, for Secretary of State, 340,805; McBride, Democrat, 329,314; Prohibition, 28,657. Robinson's plurality 11,242.

Allen O. Myers has retired from the Cincinnati Enquirer, thereby changing the tone of the paper. The Enquirer is now inclined to resume its hostility to President Cleveland.

Prosperity all around! California savings bank deposits increased $4,000,000, instead of running down as they did last year. Where, Mr. Blaine, is the "blight of Democratic misrule?"

The legislature of Ohio will have to face a big deficit in state finances when it assembles. Governor Foraker's idea is that the farmers should pay more tax on their land.—Plain Dealer.

The old court house at Plymouth, N. H., in which Daniel Webster made one of his earliest if not his first plea, has, after having been used as a wheelwright's shop, been restored to its original appearance at Senator Blair's expense and is now used for a library. Thanks to Democracy.

A curious lawsuit is about to be instituted at Findlay. A man bought a Texas pony from a drover, and while the animal was being caught it fell and was fatally injured. The question at issue is who must sustain the loss, the purchaser who agreed to take the animal or the drover who had not yet delivered it?

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has unanimously decided that cutting hair and shaving beards are not works of either necessity or charity, and therefore are not permissible on Sunday.

It seems really difficult for the smart Alecks to learn that the President was not a candidate for anything at the recent election. Whenever he has been a candidate it was pretty generally known, and it will be again.

Second Comptroller Maynard has decided that a soldier who, after having served for two years or more in the army, deserted some months after the close of the war, but who subsequently received an honorable discharge, is entitled to a bounty of $50, under the thirteenth section of the act of July 25, 1865.

During the last year in the United States there were manufactured 185,226,192 pounds of tobacco for chewers and smokers, and 3,510,996,126 cigars. During the last twenty-four years there has been listed for internal revenue purposes an amount of these luxuries that would give to each inhabitant of the United States 700 cigars and forty-two pounds of tobacco.

A new use for the tobacco plant has been discovered. Its stems and waste, it is claimed, are equal to linen rags in the manufacture of paper. Tobacco waste costs less than $10 a ton, linen rags $70 to $90. There is no expense in assorting the former, and very little shrinkage, as against a loss of one-third of rags. The yearly tobacco waste is estimated by the census report at from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 pounds.

President Cleveland is the first President since General Grant's first term who has been able to command a party majority in the House at the Congressional election next succeeding his inauguration. Before the war the same rule prevailed. Pierce's overwhelming victory in 1852 was followed by a Republican house in 1854, and Buchanan's election in 1856 was followed by a Republican House in 1858. Even Mr. Lincoln had a narrow escape in 1862, as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana went against his administration.

The Indiana Democrats will be quite right in contesting the constitutionality of the election of the Lieutenant-Governor.—The constitution does not recognize any such filling of a vacancy during the constitutional term. In similar circumstances States run without a regularly elected Governor, and the United States runs without a regularly elected President. There was no earthly occasion, and certainly no authority, to elect a Lieutenant-Governor in Indiana before the appointed time.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

It seems the Toledo Democrats are not satisfied unless they have something on to boil. The latest thing thrown into the pot is a new paper project, one that will be anti-Hurd from the word go. Well, probably it is again time for some body to put money into a new daily at Toledo, only to be sunk in the course of a few months. The Bee is now Democratic from stem to stern, and instead of Democrats talking of another paper let them turn in and give it that support it deserves. That is the way to be of service to the Democratic party.

The Republican leaders were boasting before election that they would certainly have a majority in the next House of Representatives by reason of Democratic disaffection and lethargy. It is true, there was no activity on the part of the Democrats in many districts, but instead of voting the wrong ticket, they refrained from voting at all, and notwithstanding this feeling, the Democrats carry the Lower House by a good working majority of about 15. The Democracy have the vote and can carry the Lower House by a greater or less majority every time. In 1888 we will again see the majority raised to forty or fifty.

The New York World Washington correspondent says of a well known Ohio editor: "It was thought that Mr. McLean would occupy his house this winter. But it now appears that he has gone back to Cincinnati to stay for a time. He may remain there during the winter. His house will probably be rented. He has found that a man who owns a large newspaper property cannot stay away a very long time from it without loss. He is his own managing editor to-day and has deposited the talented Allen O. Myers, who for several months has been making the Enquirer an out-and-out administration paper."

Few persons comprehend the magnitude of the operations of the different departments of the government. It is but a few years since the system of postal money orders was introduced, but the business has grown until its volume is startling. The report of the superintendent of the system, just issued, shows the operations of the service during the last fiscal year. From the report it appears that the total number of money orders and postal notes issued was 14,438,123 representing $185,716,317 for which fees aggregating $1,214,506 were received.—The increased patronage of the system amounted to 1,300,032 remittances—over nine per cent. The gross revenue was $350,551, and the expenses paid from appropriations was $341,387, leaving a net profit of $9,164.

State Inspector of Oils Smithnight filed his annual report with the Governor on the 11th, covering the period from May 15th to October 31st. The total number of barrels of oil inspected during that time was 139,105, of which but 188 were rejected. Twenty thousand four hundred and twenty-four barrels were inspected in Cincinnati, for which fees to the amount of $1,020.70 were collected. The inspection showed an average of 3½ degrees Fahrenheit above the test required by law. In referring to the Ohio oil fields the Inspector says that those recently developed at Findlay and Lima are very productive and promise to rival the oil fields of Pennsylvania. Refineries have already been erected in the above mentioned districts with an average capacity of five thousand barrels daily of illuminating oil. The Ohio oil differs from that of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky, and resembles more closely the oil found in Canada. It contains more sulphur, which makes it harder to refine, but a high quality of illuminating oil is produced. Not a single case of explosion from a lamp containing Ohio oil was reported to the Inspector, but frequent and disastrous explosions of gasoline were reported.

Hon. M. A. Foran's Book—"The Other Side."

We have received from the publishers, Ingham, Clark & Co., of Cleveland, a copy of the new story just out and written by the Hon. M. A. Foran, Member of Congress for three successive terms from the Cleveland district. The title of the book is "The Other Side," a novel, a trade union story, and is intended as an answer to Chas. Reed's "Put Yourself in His Place," and the anonymous work known as the "Bread Winners." It is both interesting and instructive, and should be read by all laboring men and capitalists, as the lessons inculcated in its pages are most pertinent in these times of labor agitation. The work no doubt will have an immense sale. The publishers wish agents in every township to canvass for it, and those wishing to secure territory should correspond with them at once.

What Ohio Farmers have Lost by Cholera and Texas Fever.

The Board of Live Stock Commissioners filed its first annual report with the Governor, Tuesday, at Columbus. After citing the net under which the Board was appointed, the report says: "The loss which the State suffers annually on hogs, sheep and cattle is very large. During the last six years 890,566 hogs died of disease in Ohio. Their cash value was $4,130,285. Nearly 10 per cent. of the hog product die annually. Most of the mortality is caused by hog cholera. In some of the corn States the mortality during the last year has been very much greater than it ever was in Ohio. In Iowa for the year 1885 the Assessors' returns show that of 4,328,190 hogs 2,200,533 died, or more than half of the entire hog crop of the State for the year.—During the period of six years 133,340 horned cattle, worth nearly $3,000,000, or $500,000 annually, have died from disease. The comparison shows that Ohio loses 10 per cent. of her hogs and about 1 per cent. of her sheep and cattle annually." The report contains figures showing that the loss is not peculiar to Ohio or America. The report says that while pleuro pneumonia exists in Chicago the largest cattle market in the world, to an extent at present unknown, arising from an undetermined source, it will be seen that the cattle interests of Ohio are in jeopardy every hour, especially when we know that large numbers of cattle are purchased there and shipped to Ohio for feeding. These considerations demand some legislation commensurate with the importance of the interests which they concern. The neglect of animal hygiene in distilleries, where animals are kept in close, steaming unventilated stables, where their food is placed before them so hot that it must cool before it can be eaten, has given a permanent lodgment of tubercle bacilli in these stables, as well as a source of milk supply for the market which must be unhealthy. The Commission recommends that the sale of milk produced from distillery feed cows be prohibited, and that the statute relating to the sale of milk be made more explicit.—They think the importations of cattle from England—in fact, from Europe—should be forbidden, and Texas cattle should be prevented from moving beyond their natural range until frost has come in the States to which they are driven. These cattle leave upon the soil a microbe, which, entering the bodies of any unacclimated animals grazing after or with these Texas cattle, produce Texas fever. Legislation is recommended making owners of cattle and railroads bringing cattle into this State responsible for damage occasioned thereby, and it should not be necessary for the plaintiff to prove that the parties bringing such diseased cattle knew them to be imported or infectious.

The revenues of the government are far in excess of the necessary money needed to carry on the government, then why is this extra amount of money taken from the pockets of the people to lay idle at Washington. The present tariff system, which brings about this state of affairs, is a relic of war times and is simply robbery in these times of peace. It robs the poor to benefit the rich, and why so much opposition to tariff reform should arise from the lower classes is a mystery hard to solve. The Democratic party is pledged to tariff reform and in time will give it to the people.

There seems to be some dissatisfaction among Democratic politicians here and elsewhere over President Cleveland's attitude with regard to appointments. If the gentlemen voted the Democratic ticket in 1884 they have themselves alone to blame. They knew that President Cleveland had, as Governor of New York, demonstrated the fact that he could not be "run" by politicians and they knew, too, that the Democratic platform promised just such reform as President Cleveland is giving us. Knowing these facts the people elected Cleveland and they are more than satisfied with his splendid record. The dissatisfied politicians who have not got what they wanted had better, for their own sakes, open their eyes to the real state of affairs. Cleveland may not suit the sore-heads but he does the people.—Toledo Times.

The close contest in the 7th Ohio Congressional district has been set to poetry, and the Taylor Bros., of Tennessee, will furnish the music for it. The contest was between John Little, Republican, and James C. Campbell, Democrat. The official count was required and the result is told as follows: Three Little Campbell votes are we, Votes for old Democracy. Making a small majority— Three little votes for Jim, Three little votes of the proper stuff, Three little votes, but just enough To make Little's way a little rough— Three little votes for Jim. From three little votes take one away, Two little votes remain, and they Did by the count official stay— Two little votes for Jim.

Mr. Carlisle has pulled through all right, with a majority which would have been a good deal bigger if his Democratic constituents had waked up to the fact that there was an election last Tuesday. Mr. Carlisle's defeat would have been generally regretted, even by his political opponents in Congress. His narrow escape this year should teach the Democrats in his district that trusting to luck to elect a man is mighty foolish and wholly unsafe. The Kentucky Democrats need to be stirred up.—Lima Times.

The Republicans have returned to the plan of hiring out convicts to contractors bringing convict labor into direct competition with the honest man.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14th, 1886.

Ed. NORTHWEST:—At present there seems to be a drought of news at the Capital city. The only topic which seems to agitate the political waters is the recent defeat of the Democracy in places where least looked for, and every old chronic is trying to suggest some good and sensible excuse for the certainly humiliating result. The most plausible one is "apathy." But what is the cause of the apathy? Here again the aforesaid vendors of political nostrums come to the front, and try to force upon you their different panaceas, ranging from the old chestnut "boodile," to the popular dislike for the administration. The last one is the most probable, and it is now almost generally conceded that it is the true and only cause. The Democracy throughout the country are becoming tired of this humbug "civil service," and after having voted the Democratic ticket for twenty-five years without any show of success are disgusted, after getting control of the government, to see Republicans hold the most lucrative positions, and to see that good appointments are not bestowed upon the party workers, but upon some out-cast mugwump who never voted the Democratic ticket until this Presidential election. The idea that "personal interests in political events is dishonesty" is all bosh, and if the Democrats wish to be successful in the next election, that holier than thou idea must be put in the back ground, or better still—under ground.

Hon. John S. Barbour, who recently returned from Europe, said in a speech last week that "The Democrats who carried the flag of the party in 1884 have not received the encouragement they deserve, and in fact have not been recognized by the administration. * * * When the President puts men in office he must not consider personal motives but party motives, and it without fear or trembling. * * * The mugwump is having too much influence with the President and the Democrats too little." Mr. Barbour thinks these are a few causes for the apathy of the Democrats.

Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier Journal, is still more pronounced, and says that "The Democratic party must meet the tariff issue honestly, and substitute for the humbug of civil service reform the actuality of a clean and efficient administration of the government upon purely Democratic principles." If the President would take the advice of such men and influence a sturdier party spirit into the administration, it would be a god-send to the Democratic party.

The only appointment of any note for Ohio was Wm. D. Burnett, of Cincinnati, to the District Attorneyship for the Southern District of Ohio. He was one of twenty-nine applicants, was highly endorsed by Ex-Gov. Rindley, Democratic Congressman, etc. He is a young man and said to be a good Democrat. The position is worth about $7,000 a year.

In regard to appointments, "The mills of the gods grind slowly, and they grind exceedingly small."

There has been a great deal of talk here recently about Mrs. Cleveland not going to Richmond because Winnie Davis was there. Shortly after the President returned he held one of his regular receptions, in the course of which a Richmond lady was presented, who in shaking hands with him, said she was sorry not to have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Cleveland, for next to Winnie Davis there was no one she would like to see better than Mrs. Cleveland. The President looked a moment and in a "far distant" way remarked that Mrs. Cleveland would undoubtedly be pleased to see her in the evening at her reception.

In spite of the issue of the one and two dollar certificates there is a great deal of silver dollars in circulation. At present there are $61,453,240 out of a total coinage of $244,767,386. It has been the endeavor of the Treasury Department to increase the circulation to $65,000,000, but it is thought it can not be done in the face of the recent issue of bills. The net gold holdings of the Treasury, coin and bullion, is $129,868,640, as compared with $142,238,589, on the 1st of November, 1885.

The number of pensions granted last week was 1,780. The number of new applications last week was 771—506 for invalid pensions, 265 for widows; there is an average of 441 applications a day for widows. But still with 1,780 allowed cases in one week, some howler will say the Democratic party is not with the soldier. Bess.

Chicago workmen elected a State Senator and six Representatives. There will be twenty-six labor votes in the next Illinois Legislature.

Hon. W. D. Hill's term in Congress will expire on the 4th of next March, when Boothman's term will begin and continue for two years, when the Democrats will take hold again.

A Chicago dispatch says that it is certain that the protected steel and iron mill owners of Chicago raised a fund, said to have been $20,000, to defeat Morrison and Frank Hurd.

There is one important fact about the loss of certain Democratic districts in Virginia which our Republican contemporaries have overlooked, and that is they can be recovered without difficulty. The result will really prove of advantage to Virginia Democrats. It will take the conceit out of them and put them on their mettle.—Star.

We heard of a citizen of a neighboring county, who not long since refused his home paper, because, said he, "I can get a metropolitan weekly, a much larger, for a much less sum." Not long afterwards, the same individual furnished the publisher of his home paper with a long communication, warmly advocating the opening of a road near his premises, which, if opened, would greatly enhance the value of his property.—He was referred to the metropolitan paper.

Talk about monumental lies—how's this contribution to the general fund that we find floating around in our exchanges. In our opinion it takes the four barrels. A girl in a Western town about a year ago swallowed a trade dollar and for a long time her life was despaired of. Two months ago a number of red sores broke out all over her body, and when these were opened a copper cent was found in each one. A physician who was called in removed eighty-four cents in this manner, that being all that made their appearance. Since then the girl suffers no inconvenience whatever.

Council Proceedings.

REGULAR MEETING, Monday, Nov. 15, 1886.

Members present—Barnes, Cahill, Fellers, Roessing, Reiser. Mayor Theisen in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved. The following bills were presented and allowed:

B. F. Fontions, tile..... $10 83

Tanner & Scherer, labor..... 1 50

Wm. Schillinger, cleaning chimneys..... 1 50

Considerable talk was had upon the sidewalk question, which culminated in the Street Committee and Street Commissioner being authorized to build or repair all sidewalks upon which notices have been served.

It was moved and seconded that the Street Commissioner remove fence in the street abutting upon the front of Glenwood cemetery. Carried.

It was moved that the Mayor notify the Cemetery Trustees to make their report to the Council as provided by law.

Adjourned.

LIBERTY CENTER, O., Nov. 15th, 1886.

EDITOR NORTHWEST:—In perusing your paper I noticed that your grog-shop correspondent, "Tyro," is slandering our citizens for no other reason than simply because they differ from him in their views on the liquor question.

"Tyro," with his vile and forked tongue, has heaped abuse and falsehoods on our Mayor for urging the Council to carry out the wishes of the voters of our village as expressed at the ballot-box by fifty majority in favor of prohibition. From the Mayor he jumped on our school directors and ridiculed our new school house, which is an ornament to our town, and is a thorough made and substantial structure, and to cap the whole he now with his blasphemous tongue attacks the M. E. Church by claiming that "they are trying to attract God's attention during the hours of worship by blowing tin horns." It is evident that every official and every organized society in our village that does not bend the knee to the saloons must take the slang and abuse of your bald and flatheaded correspondent. "Tyro" seems to be terribly exasperated because our temperance voters sustained the party that passed the Dow Liquor Law in stead of heeding the advice of one who by pen and voice is fighting against our form of government viz: "that a majority must rule." LOCAL CITIZEN.

Tiffin has commenced to pipe gas from Findlay.

It cost $30,000 to hold the election in Cincinnati under the new law.

It is said that Foraker will not be a candidate for the second term. He feels, and his friends feel, that he has committed political suicide.

How the Electoral Vote Would Have Stood.

[Albany Argus.]

According to the vote of Tuesday, November 2d, the Electoral College would stand as follows:

Democratic.	Republican.	Doubtful.
Alabama..... 10	Illinois..... 22	California..... 8
Arkansas..... 7	Iowa..... 13	Indiana..... 15
Colorado..... 3	Kansas..... 3	Massachusetts..... 11
Connecticut..... 6	Maine..... 6	Minnesota..... 7
Delaware..... 3	Michigan..... 13	N. Hampshire..... 4
Florida..... 3	Nebraska..... 3	Rhode Island..... 4
Georgia..... 5	Nevada..... 3
Kentucky..... 13	Ohio..... 23	Total..... 52
Louisiana..... 9	Oregon..... 3
Maryland..... 3	Pennsylvania..... 20
Mississippi..... 9	Vermont..... 4
Missouri..... 16	Wisconsin..... 11
New Jersey..... 9		Total..... 142
New York..... 36
N. Carolina..... 11
S. Carolina..... 9
Tennessee..... 12
Texas..... 13
Virginia..... 12
West Virginia..... 6
Total..... 207

The full size of the Electoral College is 401, and only 201 votes are required to elect. It will be seen that all of the doubtful States could be given to the Republicans, and still they would not have enough to elect their candidate.

[From the Ottawa Sentinel.]

A RASH CONCLUSION.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—The Weekly Law Bulletin, published for the profession of all parties, in the number of Nov. 1st, informs its readers, while advising them of a similar and successful effort of the convict Francis to escape, and telling of his attempted escape at Columbus, in the penitentiary cases there, assumes that this attempt "had one good effect of disposing of the claim that these prisoners are giving false testimony under a promise or expectation of a pardon." Here is a palpable effort pending, and before trial to endorse Gov. Foraker's depraved course, in bringing the evidence of criminals, over whom he has control, to defile politics by their pretended revelations. Such a man as Francis, whatever promise had been made to him to secure his testimony, would prefer immediate escape to any uncertain promise. And the hasty and partisan conclusion of the Bulletin, while admitting past habit in this respect, on Francis part, only exhibits the editor's credulity, just before election, to help a discreditable political effort on the part of him who passes for head and governor of the Republican party of Ohio. It was not legal news, for the comment determined no intelligent legal conclusion, but one in any view broad for the pretense of reason for its sustenance. This Bulletin is palmed off on Democrats as a legal law magazine, and I notice this not solitary instance where its not able conductor gives us his partisan prejudiced conclusions which he mistakes for law and sense.
